DeQuanda Sanders is an Innovations Consultant with the Georgia Technology Authority, where she helps drive digital transformation, process improvement, and technology adoption across state agencies. A native of Walterboro, S.C., and graduate of Claflin University with a B.S. in Biology, she brings more than 20 years of experience in medical sales and marketing, earning national awards for performance and leadership. In addition to her professional achievements, Ms. Sanders is a community leader, serving with organizations such as the Community Partnership for Protecting Children and the DeKalb Initiative for Children and Families, and as Founder of Saving Our Children and Families (SOCAF), Inc. Her contributions have been recognized with numerous honors, including the GTA Team Impact Award, the Unsung Heroine Award from the Metropolitan Atlanta Chapter of 100 Black Women, and the Bold Honoree for Advocacy.